Magazine's April 13 Issue Will Carry Baby Contest Picture

At least part of Circleville's Pumpkin Show of last Fall will come to life again next week. The show's annual Baby Parade will be "The Face of America" feature with a two-page color photograph in the April 13 issue of the Saturday Evening Post.

The big double-page display entitled "Prize Babies" shows about 15 local mothers and eight of their very young offsprings gathered around three judges who are pondering final choice of a winner.

The judges shown in the picture, which was taken at the corner of Main and Pickaway streets, are Levisa Patterson, Russ Canter, and Mary Lou Pfeiffer.

Although the Post display refers to the event as the "annual baby parade", it failed to mention that the contest was part of the larger Pumpkin Show.

THE complete caption reads:

"Competition begins early for youthful citizens of Circleville, Ohio, at the annual baby parade. Egged on by their eager elders, the diaper set trudges down Main Street in bonnets and bows, and the crowd coos. The judges are on a spot: They have to choose the best baby right in the presence of the parents. The babies are in none too comfortable a position, either, what with the staring of the spectators and the starchiness of the formal frocks. For the most part, however, the brave little contestants carry on with resigned composure; nobles oblige."

"To the winner, great honor, and a small prize: Two dollars and fifty cents. Only one entry was truly disillusioned in this contest held some months ago. The infant in the upholstered carriage (lower right) decided that, at those prices, he did not choose to compete."

The Post photograph was taken by Ivan Dmitri. The magazine will go on sale next week.

Former Court Clerk's Book Said 'Short'

COLUMBUS (AP)—U. S. District Judge Mel G. Underwood says there may be "a shortage or discrepancy" of about $4,000 in the accounts of William Robinette Jr., of Powell, a former court clerk.

Judge Underwood's statement followed disclosure in Washington that Justice Department investigators had found $257,000 in the personal account of an unnamed former clerk of the Southern Ohio District Court.

Robinette resigned a year ago after 28 years in the post. Attorney John D. Lyden of Westerville was appointed to succeed him. Judge Underwood said the Justice Department investigation was made at his suggestion. He said reports to him indicated a shortage of approximately $4,000 but made no mention of any sums deposited to Robinette's account.

He said the examiners have not advised if there is criminal responsibility in the matter.

The statement that a former clerk was found to have $275,000 in a personal account was made by Asst. Atty. Gen. S. A. Andretta in testimony before a House Appropriations subcommittee.

"Did you recover this $257,000?" Rep. Cleveland (R-Ohio) asked. "Yes, over $300,000," Andretta is recorded as replying. The discrepancy between the two figures was not explained.

In Cincinnati, Federal Judge John H. Druffel said the government did not recover the $257,000 and "never had a chance to recover it."

"The money is on deposit here to the accounts of private litigants," Judge Druffel said. "It is amply bonded and does not belong to the government."

Praying Husband Is Shed In Court

NORWICH, Conn. (AP)—Mrs. Edna S. Massey, 31, of Lyme, won a divorce in Superior Court here because, she told the judge, her husband "prayed too much."

Mrs. Massey who asked the decree on grounds of intolerable cruelty told Judge Abraham S. Borden Friday that her husband, Joseph, 40, was a religious fanatic, who forced her and her two children to "pray all the time."

"He thought it was sinful to watch television, attend baseball games, read newspapers and smoke," she testified.

Postal Cutbacks Delayed for Week

Postmaster Summerfield Accused Of Pulling 'Unadulterated Bluff'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Postmaster General Summerfield has tossed the postal service ball back to Congress by ordering the nation's 37,000 postoffices to prepare for drastic mail delivery reductions starting next Saturday.

Summerfield said Friday the cutbacks will get underway at that time unless Congress, meanwhile, gives him $47 million he contends is "necessary" to continue postal service at present levels for the remaining three months of the 1957 fiscal year.

Summerfield issued the instructions only a few hours after Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) of the House Appropriations Committee told the House the postmaster general was pulling what Cannon called "an unadulterated bluff" in talking about reduced service, and that "they'll deliver the mail."

The Appropriations Committee earlier in the day had voted to give Summerfield $17 million and to consider the remaining $30 million next Friday. But Summerfield described as "ridiculous" the committee decision to defer action on the additional allotment for a week.

THE POSTAL chief said he had planned to make some cutbacks today, but that it had been physically impossible to circulate the necessary orders in time.

He announced "with great regret" that starting a week from today, all postoffices will be closed on Saturday and Sundays, and that there will be no mail deliveries, city, suburban or rural, on Saturday, except for items bearing special delivery postage. Saturday streetbox pickups will continue on Saturdays, but on limited Sunday schedules, he said.

Starting April 15, he said, postoffices will limit window service on week days to a maximum of 8½ hours, and that on the same day business district deliveries will be limited to two a day.

The program calls for further discontinuance of money orders entirely at first and second class postoffices. This would become effective April 29, and on that same date postal authorities would start suspension of third class mail service, except for shipments of medical supplies.

The third class service handles small merchandise, merchandise samples and advertising matter.

Asked if he would resign if Congress turns down his money requests, Summerfield reported: "Now I've heard everything! Do you think I'm in a mood to resign?"

BUT REP. Wayne Hays (D-Ohio) says he hears that if the supplemental postal funds are not voted, Summerfield will resign and former Republican Sen. George Bender will be appointed in his place.

"I would approve for two reasons," Hays said Friday. "First, he is from Ohio. Then, I feel that much of the postal difficulty is caused by the advantages enjoyed by these magazines like Time and Life. After what Time said about him in the last campaign, Mr. Bender might look into that."

Time called Bender a "buffoon" for his campaign methods.

Both Sides Rest Cases In Trial Of Prof

DAYTON (AP)—Both sides have 30 days to submit final briefs in the contempt of Congress trial of Lee Lorch, 39, Arkansas mathematics professor.

Federal Judge Lester L. Cecil said there would be no decision in the case until after that time. Both sides rested their cases Friday.

Lorch is charged with eight counts of contempt for refusing to answer eight questions about alleged Communist activities. He is charged with Communist activities in the Dayton-Yellow Springs area.

Lorch, a former professor at Fisk University in Nashville who is a teacher at Philander Smith College, Little Rock, Ark., faces, if convicted, a maximum sentence of one year in prison and a fine of up to $1,000 on each count.

Rep. Gordon Scherer (R-Ohio), chairman of the subcommittee before which Lorch was called, testified Friday that there had been no limit set on the scope of the subcommittee's investigation.

Defense Attorney Fyke Farmer of Nashville, Tenn., had contended the questions Lorch refused to answer had nothing to do with the scope of the investigations which he said was Communist activities in the Dayton-Yellow Springs area.

Ike's Latest Drive Is Very Leisurely

GETTYSBURG, Pa. (AP)—President Eisenhower took it easy at his farm today after the slowest paced trip he ever made by automobile from Washington.

The President and his wife traveled the 84 miles from the White House Friday in two hours and 15 minutes, moving at a speed which never exceeded the posted legal limits.

That was quite a contrast to the pace a week earlier. On March 29 Eisenhower zipped along at speeds up to 75 miles an hour along a route where the maximum permitted is 55 miles.

Week-Long Spring Storms Appear To Be Easing Off

Battle Smoke Dying Down In Ohio Senate

'Middle Ground' Pay Measure May Come Up In House Debate

COLUMBUS (AP)—Acrid after-the-battle smoke settled in the Ohio Senate chamber today after a three-hour debate in which Democrats kicked Republican Gov. C. William O'Neill around and Republicans managed to pass O'Neill's bill to cut salaries of top state officials.

After Friday's slam-bang session, which enabled the Republican majority to send O'Neill's pay-slash bill to a ready House, Senate Majority Leader C. Stanley Mechem (R-Athens) lifted his hand and pronounced: "Peace!"

A casual observer wouldn't have believed it while Friday's debate raged, but both the emergency clause and the bill itself were approved, 32-2.

Only two Cleveland Democrats, Sens. Frank D. Celebrezze Jr. and Andrew C. Putka, opposed the measure on the final showdown.

It was both a bitter and rollicking session. Democrats, angered by what they called Republican "ram-it-down-your-throat tactics," assailed from every side the GOP governor and his "mistake."

THEY REFERRED to his demanding salary increases last January for top officials only to ask now that the raises be repealed.

But the Senate had its rollicking moments, too. Unnoticed by the presiding officer, Lt. Gov. Paul M. Herbert, Frank Celebrezze III, 5-year-old son of the senator, had stood quietly by his father's desk for more than an hour. Suddenly the senator started to lead the youngster off the floor.

"That's all right," Herbert called after the retreating figures. "The young man may have the privileges of the floor."

Said Sen. Celebrezze over his shoulder defiantly: "He is seeking another privilege."

And, amid the howls of both Republicans and Democrats, the pair headed for the outer corridor and parts beyond.

The controversial pay cut bill, which slashes the salaries of all but three Cabinet-level officials, went to a skeleton session of the House after Senate passage and was sent immediately to the Finance Committee for a Monday night hearing. It may come to a House vote Wednesday.

The only drowning in this area was in Madison County where a young boy drowned when the boat in which he and a companion were riding overturned. According to latest reports the body has not yet been found.

Elsewhere, several families were evacuated yesterday evening at Yellowburg, near the Pickaway-Ross County line. High water from the Scioto and Yellowburg Creek isolated the community to motor transportation early yesterday.

Most of the families moved out from the community were those who lived on low ground located between two high hills. The evacuation reportedly took place without mishap.

Cincinnati Bookie Arrested In Raid

CINCINNATI (AP)—Stanley L. Hannan, 66, arrested in a raid here, has been charged with operating a handbook without a federal excise stamp.

County police and Internal Revenue agents said Hannan protested he had bought a stamp in Louisville, Ky. But Sheriff's Officer Carl G. Meyer said the stamp was not good in Cincinnati's district.

Swindler Poses As FBI Agent

CINCINNATI (AP)—Police say a smooth-talking man, arrested in Minneapolis as a swindler, bilked four Cincinnati women out of $291 by posing as an FBI agent searching for counterfeit money.

Officers said Ernest C. Worley, 41, would "confiscate" the money from his victims. The Cincinnati FBI office said Worley will be returned to his native Tennessee. The FBI said Worley was identified with 82 swindles.

Scioto River Reaches Crest Of 19.63 Feet

Weather Officials Say Water Level Now Dropping Here

The Scioto River crested here at 19.63 feet around midnight local weather officials reported today. This is about four feet above flood stage, they said.

However, the onrushing river appears to be dropping now. Although .19 inches of rain fell here yesterday water level at 8 a. m. today had subsided to 19.58 feet.

Weather observers here said well over three inches of rain fell in this area. This, along with heavy downpours in other sections of the state, caused the Scioto and other streams in the county to overflow their banks.

Several area highways were closed to traffic yesterday. According to the sheriff's department this morning most of these highways, including I-5 and R-1, the Canal Rd., old Route 22 and Route 56 west of Circleville, were still under water.

WITHIN the city, many North-end residents registered complaints of flooded basements, especially along the Cedar Heights Rd. area.

Several homes west of the city along Route 22 and the Canal Rd. were threatened yesterday and last night. However, it was reported that no families were evacuated there.

The only drowning in this area was in Madison County where a young boy drowned when the boat in which he and a companion were riding overturned. According to latest reports the body has not yet been found.

Elsewhere, several families were evacuated yesterday evening at Yellowburg, near the Pickaway-Ross County line. High water from the Scioto and Yellowburg Creek isolated the community to motor transportation early yesterday.

Scioto, Miami Rivers Bulge As More Rain Is Forecast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Scioto and Miami rivers bulged across their banks in two widely separated spots today after six straight days of rain in Ohio during which at least two persons drowned.

Danger of an Ohio River flood appeared to have passed. At Cincinnati, the river was steady at 41 feet, 11 feet away from flood stage. Weathermen predicted it will reach its peak of 47.5 feet at midnight next Wednesday.

But there appeared to be no long-term let up in the rain. Light showers were predicted for most of the state today with the possibility of a few snow flurries in northern sections.

Five major highways and numerous secondary roads were closed by floodwaters from creeks and rivers, the Ohio Highway Patrol reported.

A violent line squall with winds up to 90 miles an hour lashed the northwestern Ohio late Friday. A lake freighter was torn loose from her winter moorings in the Maumee River at Toledo, knocking down part of the Fassel Street Bridge and causing damage estimated at more than $250,000.

ROBERT COLBURN, 34, was seriously injured at Toledo when a large crane used to unload steel was toppled by high winds, pinning him beneath.

Sheridan Williams Jr., 14, Miamiburg, drowned Friday when his raft was upset by flood water after two gates broke on the Miami River. The gates broke near West Carrollton, six miles south of Dayton, and the youth drowned in a canal at Miamiburg, two miles farther south. Water blocked U.S. 25 and flooded an area between West Carrollton and Miamiburg.

James Miller, 17, of Mount Sterling, drowned Thursday in flood-swollen Deer Creek near the Fayette-Madison county line. He was in a rowboat which upset.

Besides U. S. 25, the state patrol closed U. S. 22 east of Cambridge, U. S. 50 three miles west of Fayetteville in Brown County, U. S. 68 five miles north of Georgetown in Brown County, and U. S. 42 between Lebanon and Waynesville.

Gusts up to 80 m.p.h. knocked down power lines and trees, disrupting communications across central Ohio, then fanned north and northwest. The high winds climaxed almost a week of rain, sleet, snow and thundershowers.

The weather bureau at Columbus reported the Scioto had overflowed at Circleville and was expected to crest at Chillicothe today. The bureau said lowland areas probably would be under water for several days but no residential areas were in peril.

Hector The Pup Brings Law Change

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Hector the pup has brought a change in Pennsylvania law.

Hector was given to George Welkoff, a Bulgarian displaced persons, last August. Welkoff unknowingly obtained a license for Hector illegally, since under a 1915 state law, an alien can't own a dog.

Welkoff wound up in jail for two days after neighbors complained about the dog. A friend has kept the dog for Welkoff.

Hector, a year-old German shepherd, was at the ceremony when Gov. George M. Leader signed the new bill permitting aliens to own dogs.

Foul Weather Kills 45, Does Vast Damage

Danger Of Floods Increases As Light Rainfall Continues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violent spring storms, dealing death and destruction as they rolled eastward from the Rockies to the Atlantic Seaboard during the week, appear to be easing.

But the danger of floods increased in many parts of the storm battered sections of the South, East and Midwest.

The week-long stormy weather, made up of destructive winds, heavy rains and blizzards, left a trail of widespread property damage, estimated in the millions of dollars.

At least 45 persons lost their lives. Five of the deaths were blamed on storms that ripped across broad areas in the eastern half of the nation Friday.

But the U. S. Weather Bureau in Chicago said the intense storm was losing its punch.

Precipitation early today was in the form of light showers and snow flurries from the Upper and Middle Mississippi Valley eastward across the Great Lakes region and the Ohio Valley to the Middle Atlantic Coast and New England and scattered showers along the Southern Atlantic Coast. Winds diminished.

FAIR WEATHER prevailed from Texas eastward across the Gulf Coast to the South Atlantic. Flooding rains sent many rivers on a rampage and scores of streams were near flood stage.

Most seriously threatened with floods appeared to be areas in Ohio, Missouri, Arkansas, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Georgia, North Carolina and Oklahoma.

Three persons drowned in floodwaters Friday, one in Ohio, and two in the foothills of southeast Missouri. Some 75,000 acres of bottomland in southeast Missouri and in nearby counties of Arkansas have been inundated.

Floods threatened areas in southern Illinois, hit by the heaviest rainfall in seven years.

In Indiana, the Wabash spilled out of its banks at Wabash, swirling across southwestern sections of the city. Police boats evacuated 18 families; some 40 families had moved out earlier.

Tornado winds struck a half dozen towns in Georgia Friday killing two boys, injuring at least six other persons and flattening more than 100 buildings.

Gusty winds uprooted trees, knocked out power and light lines and broke many windows.

Defendant Claims Detective 'Cruel'

CINCINNATI (AP)—Arthur Lee Redmon, accused of setting an apartment house fire in which eight died, says police beat him to obtain a confession.

Redmon was still on the witness stand Friday when his trial for first degree murder was adjourned over the weekend.

Redmon said Detective Thomas Faragher kicked him in the shins, and that he agreed to admit setting the fire after the kicking.

Faragher denied touching the defendant.

Redmon is accused of starting the fire because a tenant, Mrs. Johnetta Clark, 20, spurned his attentions.

America Pressing For Suez Accord

CAIRO (AP)—The United States and Egypt are continuing to press their high level diplomatic exchanges in an effort to reach agreement on the Egyptian plan for operating the Suez Canal.

Observers said Egypt, which originally had vowed to deal only through the U. N., now is actually bargaining through the United States with the Americans reporting their findings to the Suez Canal Users' Assn.

Both Sides Rest Cases In Trial Of Prof

DAYTON (AP)—Both sides have 30 days to submit final briefs in the contempt of Congress trial of Lee Lorch, 39, Arkansas mathematics professor.

Federal Judge Lester L. Cecil said there would be no decision in the case until after that time. Both sides rested their cases Friday.

Lorch is charged with eight counts of contempt for refusing to answer eight questions about alleged Communist activities. He reentered, 1954, before a House Un-American Activities subcommittee here.

Rep. Gordon Scherer (R-Ohio), chairman of the subcommittee before which Lorch was called, testified Friday that there had been no limit set on the scope of the subcommittee's investigation.

'Middle Ground' Pay Measure May Come Up In House Debate

Scioto River Reaches Crest Of 19.63 Feet

Weather Officials Say Water Level Now Dropping Here

The Scioto River crested here at 19.63 feet around midnight local weather officials reported today. This is about four feet above flood stage, they said.

However, the onrushing river appears to be dropping now. Although .19 inches of rain fell here yesterday water level at 8 a. m. today had subsided to 19.58 feet.

Weather observers here said well over three inches of rain fell in this area. This, along with heavy downpours in other sections of the state, caused the Scioto and other streams in the county to overflow their banks.

Several area highways were closed to traffic yesterday. According to the sheriff's department this morning most of these highways, including Island Rd., the Canal Rd., old Route 22 and Route 56 west of Circleville, were still under water.

WITHIN the city, many North-end residents registered complaints of flooded basements, especially along the Cedar Heights Rd. area.

Several homes west of the city along Route 22 and the Canal Rd. were threatened yesterday and last night. However, it was reported that no families were evacuated there.

The only drowning in this area was in Madison County where a young boy drowned when the boat in which he and a companion were riding overturned. According to latest reports the body has not yet been found.

Elsewhere, several families were evacuated yesterday evening at Yellowburg, near the Pickaway-Ross County line. High water from the Scioto and Yellowburg Creek isolated the community to motor transportation early yesterday.

Most of the families moved out from the community were those who lived on low ground located between two high hills. The evacuation reportedly took place without mishap.

Scioto, Miami Rivers Bulge As More Rain Is Forecast

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Scioto and Miami rivers bulged across their banks in two widely separated spots today after six straight days of rain in Ohio during which at least two persons drowned.

Danger of an Ohio River flood appeared to have passed. At Cincinnati, the river was steady at 41 feet, 11 feet away from flood stage. Weathermen predicted it will reach its peak of 47.5 feet at midnight next Wednesday.

But there appeared to be no long-term let up in the rain. Light showers were predicted for most of the state today with the possibility of a few snow flurries in northern sections.

Five major highways and numerous secondary roads were closed by floodwaters from creeks and rivers, the Ohio Highway Patrol reported.

A violent line squall with winds up to 90 miles an hour lashed northwestern Ohio late Friday. A lake freighter was torn loose from her winter moorings in the Maumee River at Toledo, knocking down part of the Fassel Street Bridge and causing damage estimated at more than $250,000.

ROBERT COLBURN, 34, was seriously injured at Toledo when a large crane used to unload steel was toppled by high winds, pinning him beneath.

Sheridan Williams Jr., 14, Miami, drowned Friday when his raft was upset by flood water after two gates broke on the Miami River. The gates broke near West Carrollton, six miles south of Dayton, and the youth drowned in a canal at Miami, two miles farther south. Water blocked U.S. 25 and flooded an area between West Carrollton and Miami.

James Miller, 17, of Mount Sterling, drowned Thursday in floodswollen Deer Creek near the Fayette-Madison county line. He was in a rowboat which upset.

Besides U. S. 25, the state patrol closed U. S. 22 east of Cambridge, U. S. 50 three miles west of Fayetteville in Brown County, U. S. 68 five miles north of Georgetown in Brown County, and U. S. 42 between Lebanon and Waynesville.

Gusts up to 80 m.p.h. knocked down power lines and trees, disrupting communications across central Ohio, then fanned north and northwest. The high winds climaxed almost a week of rain, sleet, snow and thundershowers.

The weather bureau at Columbus reported the Scioto had overflowed at Circleville and was expected to crest at Chillicothe today. The bureau said lowland areas probably would be under water for several days but no residential areas were in peril.

Hector The Pup Brings Law Change

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP)—Hector the pup has brought a change in Pennsylvania law.

Hector was given to George Welkoff, a Bulgarian displaced person, last August. Welkoff, knowingly obtained a license for Hector illegally, since under a 1915 state law, an alien can't own a dog.

Welkoff wound up in jail for two days after neighbors complained about the dog. A friend has kept the dog for Welkoff.

Hector, a year-old German shepherd, was at the ceremony when Gov. George M. Leader signed the new bill permitting aliens to own dogs.

Foul Weather Kills 45, Does Vast Damage

Danger Of Floods Increases As Light Rainfall Continues

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violent spring storms, dealing death and destruction as they rolled eastward from the Rockies to the Atlantic Seaboard during the week, appear to be easing.

But the danger of floods increased in many parts of the storm battered sections of the South, East and Midwest.

The week-long stormy weather, made up of destructive winds, heavy rains and blizzards, left a trail of widespread property damage, estimated in the millions of dollars.

At least 45 persons lost their lives. Five of the deaths were blamed on storms that ripped across broad areas in the eastern half of the nation Friday.

But the U. S. Weather Bureau in Chicago said the intense storm was losing its punch.

Precipitation early today was in the form of light showers and snow flurries from the Upper and Middle Mississippi Valley eastward across the Great Lakes region and the Ohio Valley to the Middle Atlantic Coast and New England and scattered showers along the Southern Atlantic Coast. Winds diminished.

FAIR WEATHER prevailed from Texas eastward across the Gulf Coast to the South Atlantic.

Flooding rains sent many rivers on a rampage and scores of streams were near flood stage. Most seriously threatened with floods appeared to be areas in Ohio, Missouri, Arkansas, Indiana, Illinois, Pennsylvania, Georgia, North Carolina and Oklahoma.

Three persons drowned in floodwaters Friday, one in Ohio, and two in the foothills of southeast Missouri. Some 75,000 acres of bottomland in southeast Missouri and in nearby counties of Arkansas have been inundated.

Floods threatened areas in southern Illinois, hit by the heaviest rainfall in seven years.

In Indiana, the Wabash spilled out of its banks at Wabash, swirling across southwestern sections of the city. Police boats evacuated 18 families; some 40 families had moved out earlier.

Tornado winds struck a half dozen towns in Georgia Friday killing two boys, injuring at least six other persons and flattening more than 100 buildings.

Gusty winds uprooted trees, knocked out power and light lines and broke many windows.

Defendant Claims Detective 'Cruel'

CINCINNATI (AP)—Arthur Lee Redmon, accused of setting an apartment house fire in which eight died, says police beat him to obtain a confession.

Redmon was still on the witness stand Friday when his trial for first degree murder was adjourned over the weekend.

Redmon said Detective Thomas Faragher kicked him in the shins, and that he agreed to admit setting the fire after the kicking.

Faragher denied touching the defendant.

Redmon is accused of starting the fire because a tenant, Mrs. Johnetta Clark, 20, spurned his attentions.

Observers said Egypt, which originally has vowed to deal only through the U. N., now is actually bargaining through the United States with the Americans reporting their findings to the Suez Canal Users' Assn.

Much Talking Being Heard On Cut In Tax

Washington Moving Slowly In Putting Words Into Action

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Citizens struggling with their income tax burdens may take some solace today in the many promises of a cut in taxes—sometime.

But Washington seems as reluctant to set a date for it as spring is to arrive this year.

Financial circles here think the present uncertainty over the business climate may have a lot to do with this. They suspect that as of now the fiscal authorities aren't too sure whether the budget is going to be balanced, as first thought, or not.

The reasons:

1. The government just now is spending more than it estimated earlier and the administration advocates spending still more.

2. The Treasury's future income depends in a large degree on which way corporate profits turn and upon a continuing increase in personal income.

To take the gloomiest view first, for sake of argument, financial economists say:

If government spending goes still higher and corporate earnings turn down or don't increase as hoped, and if business activity should slow down enough to keep the Treasury's take from individual income taxes only level, the Treasury could find itself with a deficit instead of the small surplus the President anticipated in January when he made his guess for next year's revenues and expenditures.

Even if there is a small surplus there will be a sizable body of conservative opinion that it should be applied to cutting the federal debt which has now risen to the point where the annual interest charges top seven billion dollars. In this view, tax cuts should come only later.

President Eisenhower's view is that tax cuts should come only after at least a token cut in the federal debt. And he says a Treasury surplus is more likely to come from increased tax returns due to higher incomes and greater business activity than from any substantial declines in government spending.

Those who take the rosier view that tax cuts may not be too far away base their hopes on one of two things:

1. Party politics could bring tax cuts regardless of what that did to a precariously balanced budget or to the federal debt.

2. Congress might cut the proposed budget enough to make a tax cut feasible.

Somewhere in between is a small band that holds that tax cuts would spur consumer buying, stimulate business activity and expansion, and thereby give the Treasury as much in income tax returns at the lower rate as it now gets from present rates on corporate and individual incomes.

But whatever the final outcome in Congress over federal expenditures and taxes, most citizens can take small comfort from the prospects nearer home.

State and local tax rates have been on the rise, in general, for some time. Even faster has risen the demand for the things that these taxes pay: Schools, hospitals, highways, sewer and water systems, police and fire protection; and the increasing public payroll.

So the prospect is that the rise in state and local tax rates will continue.

That's part of the economy's growing pains.

Ohio River Flood 'Benefits' Cited

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's recent river floodings have not been without their benefits, James D. Wells, assistant director of natural resources, says.

Wells said rains have been general throughout the state, eliminating the danger of forest fires.

On top of that, he continued they should greatly increase the state's underground water supply which is extremely important during dry months.

During dry periods, silt forms on river beds, blocking passage of water to natural underground storage areas. The rains increased stream flows and shoved aside the silt, Wells said.

Doctor Answers Questions On Local Blood Program

According to Dr. Robert G. Smith, surgeon at Berger Hospital, Pickaway County is far behind in its obligation to supply its quota of raw blood.

Dr. Smith explained that 787 pints of blood were collected in Circleville last year while 1,200 pints were administered to county residents, giving this area a deficit of 413 pints.

"Only one factor, 'voluntary' donation of blood in advance," has made the blood program successful," Dr. Smith said. "Because no substitute yet has been found for blood, it is more or less a moral obligation of the public to assure an adequate supply," he added.

Local residents will have an opportunity to heed Dr. Smith's suggestion when the Bloodmobile visits here Monday. The mobile unit will set up operations at First Methodist Church.

IN HIS WORK as surgeon, Dr. Smith related he has come across many patients and their families who do not know some of the important facts about the Red Cross Blood Program.

To better clarify this program, the local surgeon listed some of the frequent questions asked at the hospital. The questions and his answers are as follows:

Q.—Will my insurance pay for the blood if a transfusion is needed?

A.—Whether the patient has insurance or not, there is no charge for blood received.

Q.—What am I charged for?

A.—You are charged for laboratory procedures necessary to determine what blood group you belong to, whether you are rh positive or rh negative. Then each unit of whole blood to be given must be cross matched with your blood to be sure it is compatible and will not cause an unfavorable reaction during its administration. This is a very exacting procedure and special training is required. Also included in this charge is the cost of plastic apparatus that conducts blood from the bottle into a vein of persons receiving the blood. This apparatus can be used only once and is then destroyed. Syringes, needles, cotton, adhesive, alcohol and bandages also are included in the costs.

Q.—For what conditions are blood transfusions used?

A.—Blood is used before an operation to correct anemia and prevent complications that might result if further loss of blood occurs during surgery. It is used during surgery to replace blood lost, thus preventing shock and anemia. Blood is used following accidental injuries to replace that lost. It is used also to prevent shock due to bleeding from a gastric (stomach) ulcer, and bleeding following childbirth.

A.—What happens to units of blood collected during each visit of the Bloodmobile?

A.—When each unit of blood is collected, it is given a number.

Deaths AND FUNERALS

NELL WELDON

Miss Nell M. Weldon, 91, died this morning in her home at 211 S. Scioto St. after an illness of seven years.

She was born in Circleville, June 28, 1865, the daughter of Christopher and Adeline Ankin Weldon.

She was a life long member of the Presbyterian Church. She was active in civic and literary circles. As a charter member of the Monday Club, she had the honor of being president of the southeast district of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs.

She had been preceded in death by four brothers and two sisters.

Survivors include three nieces, Lucile W. Gilmore, Adelaide Blacker, and Margaret W. Weigel; two nephews, Lemuel B. Weldon and Foster Weldon.

Funeral services will be held Monday at 2:30 p. m. at the home of her niece Mrs. Charles Gilmore, 428 S. Court St. The Rev. Donald Mitchell will officiate. Interment will be in Forest Cemetery.

Friends may call at the Gilmore residence from 3 to 5 and from 7 to 9 p. m. Sunday.

Two extra small tubes of this same blood are attached to the outside of a large bottle. It is immediately refrigerated and kept cold every minute from then on until it is given to a patient. The blood is then taken to the Columbus Regional Blood Center and there it is typed, the Rh factor determined and tested to assure that it does not contain any disease germs. It is then stored in refrigeration units again. This blood may be sent to any one of 27 counties within a radius of 75 miles of Columbus. Within this area are some 50 hospitals and 1,500,000 people.

Q.—How many units of blood are used each month in this area?

A.—The Columbus Regional Blood Center collects and distributes some 4,250 pints of blood each month.

Q.—How much blood was collected in Circleville last year?

A.—787 pints.

Q.—How much blood was administered to residents of Pickaway County last year?

A.—1,200 pints.

Q.—How long can blood be stored before it is used? What happens to it after that?

A.—It may be used anytime up to 21 days. After that the liquid part is separated from the blood cells. The packed red cells have a limited use. However, the liquid portion may be used to make fibrinogen, serum albumin, gamma globulin and fresh frozen plasma.

Q.—Are there any dangers in giving blood or receiving blood transfusions?

A.—There is practically no danger at all in giving a pint of blood. It is safer to give a pint of blood than it is to walk across the street. The liquid part of the blood you give will be replaced within a few hours and your body will manufacture the missing cells in about 10 days. Every known precaution is taken before and during a blood transfusion. The same precautions are taken in giving blood transfusions at Berger Hospital as in medical centers throughout the United States.

Kingston Pike Farm Dwelling Hit By Breakin

A farmhouse on the Kingston Pike was burglarized and ransacked last night in this area's latest breakin.

Frank Rockwell reported to Pickaway County Sheriff's office about 10:00 p. m. yesterday that his home had been entered sometime earlier in the evening. A check showed that the burglar or burglars took about $60 in cash from various coin containers and jars. None of the contents of the house was reported missing.

Rockwell discovered the breakin after he and his wife arrived home at 10:00 p. m. They had previously left the house at 7:00 p. m.

Deputy sheriff Chuck Felkey said that entry was made by breaking two panes of glass in a north window and sawing out the windows center divider strip.

The entire first floor was ransacked but the upstairs of the house was left undisturbed. The burglar or burglars made their exit by the same window through which they had entered.

The Sheriff's office is continuing investigation.

Ohio River Flood 'Benefits' Cited

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's recent river floodings have not been without their benefits, James D. Wells, assistant director of natural resources, says.

Wells said rains have been general throughout the state, eliminating the danger of forest fires.

On top of that, he continued they should greatly increase the state's underground water supply which is extremely important during dry months.

During dry periods, silt forms on river beds, blocking passage of water to natural underground storage areas. The rains increased stream flows and shoved aside the silt, Wells said.

Doctor Answers Questions On Local Blood Program

According to Dr. Robert G. Smith, surgeon at Berger Hospital, Pickaway County is far behind in its obligation to supply its quota of raw blood.

Dr. Smith explained that 787 pints of blood were collected in Circleville last year while 1,200 pints were administered to county residents, giving this area a deficit of 413 pints.

"Only one factor, 'voluntary donation of blood in advance,' has made the blood program successful," Dr. Smith said. "Because no substitute yet has been found for blood, it is more or less a moral obligation of the public to assure an adequate supply," he added.

Local residents will have an opportunity to heed Dr. Smith's suggestion when the Bloodmobile visits here Monday. The mobile unit will set up operations at First Methodist Church.

IN HIS WORK as surgeon, Dr. Smith related he has come across many patients and their families who do not know some of the important facts about the Red Cross Blood Program.

To better clarify this program, the local surgeon listed some of the frequent questions asked at the hospital. The questions and his answers are as follows:

Q—Will my insurance pay for the blood if a transfusion is needed?

A—Whether the patient has insurance or not, there is no charge for blood received.

Q. What am I charged for?

A. You are charged for laboratory procedures necessary to determine what blood group you belong to, whether you are rh positive or rh negative. Then each unit of whole blood to be given must be cross matched with your blood to be sure it is compatible and will not cause an unfavorable reaction during its administration. This is a very exacting procedure and special training is required. Also included in this charge is the cost of plastic apparatus that conducts blood from the bottle into a vein of persons receiving the blood. This apparatus can be used only once and is then destroyed. Syringes, needles, cotton, adhesive, alcohol and bandages also are included in the costs.

Q. For what conditions are blood transfusions used?

A. Blood is used before an operation to correct anemia and prevent complications that might result if further loss of blood occurs during surgery. It is used during surgery to replace blood lost, thus preventing shock and anemia. Blood is used following accidental injuries to replace that lost. It is used also to prevent shock due to bleeding from a gastric (stomach) ulcer, and bleeding following childbirth.

A. What happens to units of blood collected during each visit of the Bloodmobile?

A. When each unit of blood is collected, it is given a number.

Two extra small tubes of this same blood are attached to the outside of a large bottle. It is immediately refrigerated and kept cold every minute from then on until it is given to a patient. The blood is then taken to the Columbus Regional Blood Center and there it is typed, the Rh factor determined and tested to assure that it does not contain any disease germs. It is then stored in refrigeration units again. This blood may be sent to any one of 27 counties within a radius of 75 miles of Columbus. Within this area are some 50 hospitals and 1,500,000 people.

Q. How many units of blood are used each month in this area?

A. The Columbus Regional Blood Center collects and distributes some 4,250 pints of blood each month.

Q. How much blood was collected in Circleville last year?

A. 787 pints.

Q. How much blood was administered to residents of Pickaway County last year?

A. 1,200 pints.

Q. How long can blood be stored before it is used? What happens to it after that?

A. It may be used anytime up to 21 days. After that the liquid part is separated from the blood cells. The packed red cells have a limited use. However, the liquid portion may be used to make fibrinogen, serum albumin, gamma globulin and fresh frozen plasma.

Q. Are there any dangers in giving blood or receiving blood transfusions?

A. There is practically no danger at all in giving a pint of blood. It is safer to give a pint of blood than it is to walk across the street. The liquid part of the blood you give will be replaced within a few hours and your body will manufacture the missing cells in about 10 days. Every known precaution is taken before and during a blood transfusion. The same precautions are taken in giving blood transfusions at Berger Hospital as in medical centers throughout the United States.

Pastor Announces Sunday Services At Presbyterian

The Lenten series of sermons on the Christian symbols contained on the Celtic Cross will be resumed at the Presbyterian Church Sunday at 10:30 a. m.

The Rev. Donald Mitchell will present the theme: "I Am The True Vine."

The message will expound the Scriptures concerning spirit of the Church of the Living Christ toward all that is good in life, and the power of Christ as a "secret weapon" of victory over the spirit of Satan in the attitudes of men's minds and hearts in modern times. It affords an approach to Easter which is essential to the full grasp of the true meaning and purpose of this holy day.

The sermon will be based upon a comprehensive reading of Scripture from the Book of Genesis with its original promise of a Redeemer, and from the Book of Revelation which emphasizes the fulfillment of that Promise.

Mrs. Clark will direct the Choir in the singing of the Darst arrangement of "A Lenten Carol" from the 19th century French. Mrs. Theodore L. Huston, presiding at the organ, will play "Choral Prelude," "Preiere," and "Finale" from the Bach Italian Concerto.

Lenten hymns will include: "The Church's One Foundation," "The Light of God Is Falling," "Beneath the Cross of Jesus."

During 9:30 Sunday school hour, the pastor will confer with those who are interested in Church membership in the session room. In the afternoon, the Elders of the Church will meet with the Catechism Class at 2 o'clock.

There will be no regular meeting of Westminster Fellowship in the evening, but the members of the cast for the Lenten play, "What Men Live By," will meet at 7:30 p. m. for rehearsal, under the direction of Mrs. David Yates.

The last meeting of the Week Day Bible School will be Friday afternoon at 2:15.

'Faith Of Abraham' Listed Sunday At Church Of Christ

The sermon topic announced for Sunday for the church of Christ is, "The Faith of Abraham." This lesson will be a study of the life of the man who is referred to in the New Testament as "the father of all them that believe" (Rom. 4:11).

Abraham lived in Ur of the Chaldees when God first appeared to him and said, "Get thee out of thy country, and from thy kindred, and from thy father's house, unto a land that I will show thee" (Gen. 12:1).

Many people might have questioned God, but not Abraham. He believed God and his faith moved him to immediately obey, and he "went out, not knowing whither he went" (Heb. 11:8). If we have the faith of father Abraham today we will promptly obey what God commands us, never doubting, never questioning as to why God wants us to do it.

We may not be able to see a reason for some of God's commands, however, simply because God has commanded us should be reason enough to motivate us to prompt obedience.

The supreme test of Abraham's faith came when God told him to take his son Isaac and offer him as a burnt offering on an altar. This was undoubtedly the hardest thing Abraham was asked to do, but did his faith fail him?

The divine record says, "And Abraham rose up early in the morning . . . and went unto the place of which God had told him" (Gen. 22:3). Yes, Abraham believed God and readily obeyed God's every command. Faith that obeys is the faith that saves.

Jesus said, "He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me; and he that loveth son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me." Abraham, by his faith, manifested that he loved God more than his own son.

We likewise can manifest our faith by showing that we love Him more than any earthly thing by obeying him faithfully.

SYMBOL

Legend has it that, long ago, the dogwood came into bloom on Calvary and that, afterwards, a cross was implanted into the flower itself, to remain for all time. You can see it if you look closely, rust brown against the white of each individual blossom.

Many of us carry crosses, faint like the dogwood's emblem but with us, nevertheless. Somehow, in this Lenten season, we become particularly conscious of them and of our need for help—a certain kind of help, that can be found only through the things we learn in Church.

The Church doesn't pretend to banish our cares and woes. But, its teachings realistically consider the experiences of life itself. No matter what our personal cross may be, we seem able to bear its burden with more strength.

Lent is a wonderful time in which to begin making church-going a regular part of your life—if you haven't already.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Pastor Announces Sunday Services At Presbyterian

The Lenten series of sermons on the Christian symbols contained on the Celtic Cross will be resumed at the Presbyterian Church Sunday at 10:30 a. m.

The Rev. Donald Mitchell will present the theme: "I Am The True Vine."

The message will expound the Scriptures concerning spirit of the Church of the Living Christ toward all that is good in life, and the power of Christ as a "secret weapon" of victory over the spirit of Satan in the attitudes of men's minds and hearts in modern times. It affords an approach to Easter which is essential to the full grasp of the true meaning and purpose of this holy day.

The sermon will be based upon a comprehensive reading of Scripture from the Book of Genesis with its original promise of a Redeemer, and from the Book of Revelation which emphasizes the fulfillment of that promise.

Mrs. Clark will direct the choir in the singing of the Darr arrangement of "A Lenten Carol" from the 19th century French. Mrs. Theodore L. Huston, president at the organ, will play "Choral Prelude," "Freiere," and "Finale" from the Bach Italian Concerto.

Lenten hymns will include: "The Church's One Foundation," "The Light of God Is Falling," "Beneath the Cross of Jesus." During 9:30 Sunday school hour, the pastor will confer with those who are interested in Church membership in the session room. In the afternoon, the Elders of the Church will meet with the Catechism Class at 2 o'clock.

There will be no regular meeting of Westminster Fellowship in the evening, but the members of the cast for the Lenten play, "What Men Live By," will meet at 7:30 p. m. for rehearsal, under the direction of Mrs. David Yates.

The last meeting of the Week Day Bible School will be Friday afternoon at 2:15.

BRING A FRIEND TO CHURCH WITH YOU

Don't Envy The 'Simpler Life'

In this modern world so filled with tensions and anxieties a sigh is often heard for the "simpler, happier life" of people living in the less advanced regions of the earth.

It is said, "Look at those people. They are backward, perhaps, but they are happy and so serene. Their way of life is simple and healthful. There is none of the dog-eat-dog attitude so prevalent in modern Western society."

Not so, declares Fereidoun Esfandiary, an Iranian freelance writer now living in the United States. This is merely an "escapist" attitude by Westerners who do not realize the intense emotions which becloud the primitive life.

The truth is, says Esfandiary in a recent magazine article, that mental illness thrives in those regions as well as in America. But it isn't recognized as such in the more primitive regions. But it is the fact that the primitive life is filled with terror, dread, anxiety and ignorance that is a direct cause of the bloodshed in Asia and Africa today, says Esfandiary.

How can the Asian or African be free from the disturbances of the mind when his home (if he has a home) lacks the security, the peace, enlightenment and well-balanced love so essential to any human being's emotional growth and health? Esfandiary answers his own question by saying it is impossible.

Esfandiary contends these countries are backward because the people — instead of being happy and contented — have been handicapped by deeply absorbed fears, suspicions, feelings of inferiority and vindictiveness, and a resignation to whatever fate is in store for them. Coming from an Asian, this is interesting comment.

Stand By For Heavenly Blazer!

This month amateur astronomers in all parts of the world will have the opportunity to observe what may prove to be the brightest comet since the famous Halley's Comet put on its still remembered display in 1910.

Known as the Arend-Roland Comet, the most recently discovered celestial body was found by two astronomers from the Royal Observatory in Uccle, Belgium, on November 8, 1956. At that time it was a mere speck in the sky. It has since made its appearance before many of the world's telescopes and astronomers now have a general idea of its orbit.

Comets increase in brilliancy as they approach the sun and fade swiftly as they leave it. The Arend-Roland Comet will reach its closest point to the sun—approximately 30 million miles—on April 8, but will not be visible in the Northern Hemisphere until later in the month because of its proximity to the sun.

Among the most dramatic of the heavenly bodies, comets never cease to excite their viewers. With their fiery heads and glowing tails, they present an awesome spectacle. Halley's Comet, which dates back to 240 B. C., is credited by historians with creating hysteria and havoc among the more superstitious peoples that viewed it through the ages.

Predictions are not forthcoming on the exact magnitude of the Arend-Roland Comet because of the rather remarkable failure such predictions have met in the past. It is hoped by those who have kept a close watch on this latest addition to solar knowledge, however, that the approaching display will be as sensational as the Halley show of 1910. In any event, a view so rare is well worth watching.

Let Us Look Deeper, Senator!

By George Sokolsky

It now needs to be seen what Senator McClellan's committee will do next. It can, of course, turn to another subject, say to how many call girls have been paid out of government funds to soothe the nerves of visiting great men from abroad.

But such diversions, no matter how interesting, will not please most Americans who would prefer that Senator McClellan pursue the course upon which he started, namely, racketeering in the labor movement. The damaging, if not destruction, of Dave Beck of the Teamsters produced a week of gaiety not equaled since Senator Kefauver amused the nation with his exhibition of various gamblers and others engaged in illicit occupations.

Senator McClellan therefore ought to continue his investigation into racketeering and should next call not on those who buy houses and horses but on those who use union funds for campaign contributions. In this, he can well afford to be impartial, looking into both Republicans and Democrats, into those who pay by check and those who pay cash. He might, for instance, make a thorough study as to how his old colleague, Senator Homer Ferguson of Michigan, happened to be defeated. In fact, Senator McClellan might go into the matter of the attempt to defeat him in his last campaign in Arkansas. He might recall that on that celebrated occasion, I spilled the beans and was duly denounced on the floor of the Senate by Senator Fulbright who should have had better manners. Or, Senator McClellan might look into the efforts to defeat Senator Pat McCarran, an effort which failed. Or, he might have a look at the sizable New York campaign contributions which went into Idaho to defeat Senator Herman Welker who did not represent any New York constituency.

If Senator McClellan and his committee go into all this thoroughly, they will encounter the Committee for an Effective Congress and the Americans for Democratic Action and they might go all the way back to 1936 to discover how union money went into election campaigns. Perhaps Walter Reuther will squirm, but then Walter Reuther is an honorable man who, unlike Dave Beck, pays for his own steak and shirts, out of his own pocket. He can face all the world as an honorable man and need fear no one's censure. Or am I wrong?

It would seem to be a pity to drop the racketeering in labor investigation with Dave Beck. Why not go on, maybe in alphabetical order, picking off these union leaders for their use of union funds, paid out of the dues of the workers, for purposes other than that for which the worker paid the money?

Perhaps we may yet see the phenomenon of the Civil Liberties Union offering to provide Dave Beck with counsel to defend his right to use the Fifth Amendment to avoid self-incrimination and going into court to forbid the AFL-CIO to deprive him of his vice presidency in that body. Surely, if a university may not fire a Fifth Amendment Communist for poisoning the mind of our youth, a labor leader should not be fired for swiping money, for what is mere money compared to the mind of our youth?

We have not seen the last of Beck yet, I hope, because I am not interested in how many neckties he bought with union dough but whether or not he fixed any senator and governors and if so what are their names. And maybe if everybody goes picking on Dave Beck, he will provide this exceptionally useful information and also tell what some other AFL-CIO vice presidents spent in the same activity, he surely knowing how the boys got together on such matters without the slightest regard to partisanship. The most bipartisan activity in this country is campaign fund contributions, particularly under the table.

It would be exciting to see a profound study by Senator McClellan into this question of campaign contributions in such states as New York, New Jersey, Michigan, California, etc., etc. It would make exciting testimony if the committee got the right labor leaders to testify, and also their accountants and press agents and various other fixers who attend to such matters during pre-campaign periods.

If Senator McClellan drops this investigation of Dave Beck, the latter might rightly shriek against unfair and undue discrimination.

Learning To Eat Helps Cerebral-Palsied Talk

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

FEEDING a cerebral-palsied child correctly is probably one of the best ways to help him talk.

To realize just what a palsied child is up against, try talking without moving your tongue, lips or throat. It's a tough job.

The movements a person must make in eating a good dinner are the best exercises possible for aiding the use of these parts so vital to speech.

First Steps

Before any child learns to speak, he must first learn to suck, chew, swallow and blow.

A good speech therapist makes use of these actions when training a palsied youngster. And a good feeder can be a good speech therapist right at home.

When feeding a young cerebral palsied victim, place only a small amount of food on a spoon. Make the child use his lips to remove it. Don't make him use his teeth to take food from the spoon and don't permit the utensil to scrape against his upper teeth.

Motion of Jaws

Advise the youngster to chew. In some cases, it may be necessary to move the child's jaws in an up and down motion to show him what you mean.

Also, tell the child to move the food around with his tongue.

Don't place the food in the center of his mouth. Instead, place one spoonful on one side and the next on the other side.

Now don't be too anxious to help the child in all his eating.

For example, don't break off pieces of toast for him unless he can't manage it by himself. It's better to let him bite off pieces if he is able.

Praise Him

Like any youngster, a palsied child likes to be praised for doing things correctly. Don't scold or punish him when his eating becomes sloppy.

A victim of cerebral palsy can't help a spastic tongue or a weak athetoid tongue. It's up to you to remind him to keep his lips closed and to use his tongue to push the food around.

If there is a palsied child in your home, you can do a lot to help him right at the dinner table.

Meet 'Man in the Middle!', General Burns of Mideast

WASHINGTON—What manner of man is Maj. Gen. Eedson Louis Millard Burns, commander of the United Nations police force in the Middle East?

Correspondents who have been reporting the tense and bloody Middle East scene know Maj. Gen. E. L. M. Burns, as a shy and reticent man, except when his fine-drawn temper is tested.

This 59-year-old professional Canadian soldier, "a patient man," has had more than sufficient cause to "blow his top" on occasions. His job of trying to keep the peace between the Arabs and Israelis has been described as one of the world's toughest and most thankless tasks.

Despite staggering obstacles, however, Burns has won praise from both Arabs and Israelis for his "good counsel, fairness and impartiality, mixed with a sense of humor and friendliness." General Burns himself has described his chief problem as "suspicion".

"SOMETIMES I am able to bring the Israelis and the Arabs to agree with me around a conference table," the general says. "Then the next day I read in the paper that the people I have spoken to say that the other side is not really willing to accept my proposals."

"I don't think that I am fighting a losing battle here. I think that eventually peace will come to this area. However, it's going to take a long time and we must be patient. I think that both sides really want to make peace."

Once, when asked why he had taken on his seemingly thankless task as "keeper of the peace," Burns replied in his slow, pleasant, unemphatic voice:

"For a long time I had been proclaiming that people should do more for the United Nations. Then Pearson (Lester Pearson, Canada's minister for foreign affairs) asked me if I would like to do the job, so there I was faced with my own challenge."

"I had no expectations of great success. I felt then, as I do now, that as long as things could be kept quiet, without compromising UN principles, something would have been achieved," Burns concludes.

To Arabs and Jews, Burns is said to present a picture of "a stern, composed man, ready to listen to both sides of a question, but uncompromising in his intention to uphold the principles of the United Nations." Burns is respected by those on his staff for his energy and ability to make decisions.

ANOTHER Canadian, a reporter, revealed Burns as a gifted story-teller, "an exceptional pianist, and a man of many and varied interests with an encyclopedic mind." He enjoys gardening and listening to music. He's written poetry and prose. He speaks French, German and Arabic.

Burns believes in moving swiftly at the first sign of trouble. At the sound of a shot he's been known to drop what he was doing, drive to the airport, board his DC-4, rented from the U. S. Air Force, and fly to the scene of skirmish—wherever it's been.

Don't Envy The 'Simpler Life'

In this modern world so filled with tensions and anxieties a sigh is often heard for the "simpler, happier life" of people living in the less advanced regions of the earth.

It is said, "Look at those people. They are backward, perhaps, but they are happy and so serene. Their way of life is simple and healthful. There is none of the dog-eat-dog attitude so prevalent in modern Western society."

Not so, declares Fereidoun Esfandiary, an Iranian freelance writer now living in the United States. This is merely an "escapist" attitude by Westerners who do not realize the intense emotions which becloud the primitive life.

The truth is, says Esfandiary in a recent magazine article, that mental illness thrives in those regions as well as in America. But it isn't recognized as such in the more primitive regions.

But it is the fact that the primitive life is filled with terror, dread, anxiety and ignorance that is a direct cause of the bloodshed in Asia and Africa today, says Esfandiary.

How can the Asian or African be free from the disturbances of the mind when his home (if he has a home) lacks the security, the peace, enlightenment and well-balanced love so essential to any human being's emotional growth and health? Esfandiary answers his own question by saying it is impossible.

Esfandiary contends these countries are backward because the people — instead of being happy and contented — have been handicapped by deeply absorbed fears, suspicions, feelings of inferiority and vindictiveness, and a resignation to whatever fate is in store for them. Coming from an Asian, this is interesting comment.

Slender Silhouette Trend For Chic, Spring Suits

The suits for the coming season have taken on new lines that are both chic and flattering. Where the full silhouette was a must in the recent past, especially for the young in heart, the present trend is definitely for figure-nipping jackets which are given slenderizing emphasis by the straight, narrow skirts.

Whether the coat is long or short, most of the new styles go in for a lower neckline and a wider collar, and the great majority favor three-quarter sleeves and a fitted silhouette.

The above navy suit, always a Spring success, has a hip-length jacket with a rounded collar and set-in sleeves, and its skirt is gracefully molded. Navy tear drop mohair is the fabric used for this very feminine suit. Navy faille forms the inset detail on jacket and neckline trim.

A gray model with an Empire effect is enhanced with embroidered gray and yellow motifs over the front of the coat. It also has a slender skirt.

A third outfit features the shorter jacket with a three-button closing and a criss-cross neck closing embroidered in white nailheads. The peg-top skirt gives this costume a youthful flare.

An article on the Federal Government offering assistance to public schools was read. The secretary was instructed to write to Congressman Polk and Senators Lausche and Bricker of the Granges stand on the matter.

The lecture hour was turned over to Mrs. Caldwell who gave a resume and showed pictures of the different places they visited on their trip to Puerto Rico and South America.

Mrs. Walter Berger was hospitality chairman for the evening.

Commercial Pt. Club Has Meet

The Commercial Point Garden Club held its latest meeting in the Orient Methodist Church social room.

Hostesses were Mrs. Ralph Haughn, Mrs. Ralph Phillips and Mrs. Carl Engle.

In the absence of the president and vice-president, Mrs. Guy Gulick presided during the business session.

The meeting was opened with club prayer and song. Roll call was answered by naming a wild flower.

The project of club petunia planting was discussed. All members will have red and white petunias. Also as a project the club has ordered rubber snakes to sell.

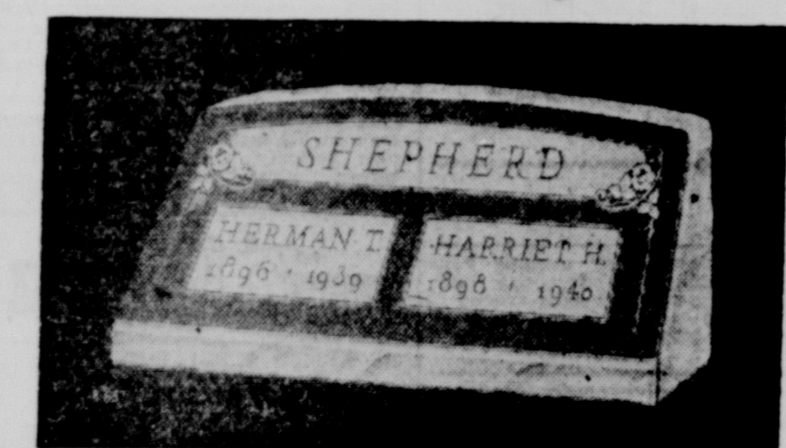

Junior Garden Club members were guests at the session.

Mrs. C. A. Bliss was in charge of the program. She introduced guest speaker, Mr. Price, naturalist with the Park Division of the Department of Natural Resources of Ohio.

He showed slides of wild flowers and the flowers of trees, which usually are missed because of their small size. He told in what areas each kind could be found.

The next meeting will be April 24 in the home of Mrs. Carl Gulick.

Slender Silhouette Trend For Chic, Spring Suits

The suits for the coming season have taken on new lines that are both chic and flattering. Where the full silhouette was a must in the recent past, especially for the young in heart, the present trend is definitely for figure-nipping jackets which are given slenderness by the straight, narrow skirts.

Whether the coat is long or short, most of the new styles go in for a lower neckline and a wider collar, and the great majority favor three-quarter sleeves and a fitted silhouette.

The above navy suit, always a Spring success, has a hip-length jacket with a rounded collar and set-in sleeves, and its skirt is gracefully molded. Navy tear drop mohair is the fabric used for this very feminine suit. Navy faille forms the inset detail on jacket and neckline trim.

A gray model with an Empire effect is enhanced with embroidered gray and yellow motifs over the front of the coat. It also has a slender skirt.

A third outfit features the shorter jacket with a three-button closing and a criss-cross neck closing embroidered in white nailheads. The peg-top skirt gives this costume a youthful flare.

Morning Coffee Held Recently In Moore Home

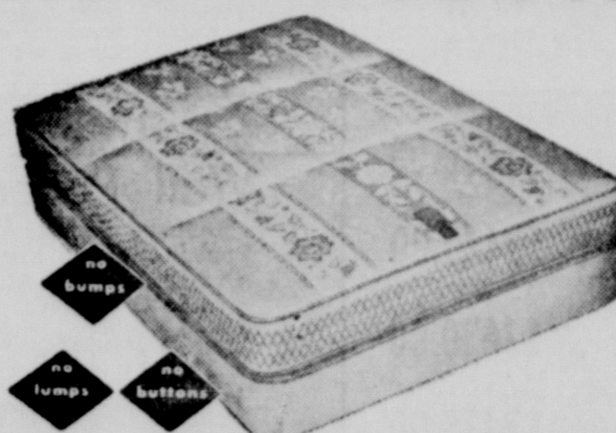

Mrs. Richard Moore, of Knollwood Village, held a morning coffee this week in honor of her house guest, Mrs. Robert Hargitt. The Hargitts, of Seaford, Delaware, have been visiting in the home of the Moores before continuing on a trip to Chicago.

Invited guests were: Mrs. William Curtis, Mrs. Fred Tammany, Mrs. Thomas Metesky, Mrs. Robert Gary, Mrs. Gordon Dalsbo, Mrs. Henry Swope, Mrs. John Griffith, Mrs. James Hodges, Mrs. Joseph Bartz, Mrs. Thomas Drean, Mrs. Frank Barnhill, Mrs. Gene Barthelmas, Mrs. Jack Clifton, Mrs. Donald McGregor, Mrs. Schubert Measamer, Mrs. Russell Clark, Mrs. John Yunker, Mrs. William Heard, Mrs. Horace Luton and Mrs. Richard Farmer.

Hank Aaron Gets Early Lead For 1957 Bat Championship

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ask Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney if he expects Hank Aaron to repeat as National League batting champ and he answers "why not?" Aaron, himself, shrugs and says "maybe." But ask the Brooklyn Dodgers and they snap back "who else?"

The Brooks aren't kidding. The 23-year-old kid from Mobile kills 'em with his bat. They can't get him out.

Aaron, who took the bat crown with 328 last season, was at it again against the Dodgers Friday, swatting a two-run homer — his 10th in 17 exhibition games this spring and fourth off Brooklyn pitching — that backed up an earlier three-run shot by pitcher Lew Burdette for a 5-1 victory.

Aaron also singled, raising his batting average for the spring to .417. And that's exactly what he's hitting against the Dodgers, too. Both of his home runs were off young southpaw Sandy Koufax. The Dodgers managed just seven singles, six off Burdette in six innings and only one off rookie southpaw Juan Pizarro.

In other games, Cincinnati nipped Washington 1-0 on Don Hoak's sixth inning home run, right-hander Bob Rush went all the way for the first time this spring as his Chicago Cubs beat Baltimore 6-4, the Philadelphia Phillies scored all their runs on an unearned basis to beat the New York Yankees 6-4, Kansas City rallied to beat Boston's Red Sox 4-1, and the Cleveland Indians breezed past the New York Giants 12-9.

Johnny Klippstein, Russ Meyer and Art Fowler combined for an eight-hitter to beat Washington. Rush set down the Orioles on eight hits, but gave up three home runs — to rookie Carl Powis, Dick Williams and Tito Francona. The Cubs scored off lefty Bill Wright.

Four hits, one a double by Bob Bowman who earlier had tripled, and two Yankee errors brought the Phillies their six runs in the seventh inning after being held to three hits over the first six frames by Bob Turley. Curt Simmons won it.

Two-run eighth inning singles by pinch-hitter Charley Thompson and Johnny Groth, following an error and two walks, brought the A's their victory against George Susce. Maury McDermott was the winner as the Red Sox dropped their fifth in a row.

The Indians chased Dick Littlefield in the first inning. The Giants, who had four home runs including solo pokes by rookies Andre Rodgers and Val Thomas, scored six in the ninth off rookie Stan Pitala to make it look better.

In other action, the Phillies finally got themselves a shortstop. They picked up Chico Fernandez from the Dodgers for Elmer Valo, Ron Negray and three minor leagues plus $75,000.

42 Horses Train For Race Matinee

At least 42 horses are training at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds race track in preparation for the fourth running of the Circleville Jaycees Harness Matinee scheduled for April 28.

Jaycee committeemen are making final arrangements for the big event, the proceeds of which will go into a fund set up for extension and improvement of the grandstand at the local track.

The matinee will be governed by United States Trotting Association rules with trophies and other prizes being offered to winners of eight scheduled heats. The prizes will be donated by local business men.

In case of bad weather the "rain date" has been set for May 5.

HORSES training for the event include the following owned by Pickaway Countians: * Porter Martin stables: Pilot

George W. Van Camp stables: Demon Van and Jody Hanover, both owned by Van Camp.

From the Forrest Short stables are the following: Billy Stone, Nip Abbe, Trailslong, Clara Light and Donna M., belonging to Forrest and Harry Short.

Choice H. Lucky H. and Jerry H. are three entries owned by Clarence Helvering of Circleville.

Texas Thinclads Setting Records

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — The biggest session of the Texas Relays goes on today, but it will have to step on it to surpass the first go-round in which Texas set a world's record in the 880-yard relay. Seven meet marks were bettered and one tied.

The Texas team that swept through the 880-yard relay in 1:22.7 last night shattered the world's record by 1.3 seconds. And it established Texas as the total power in the sprint relays since the Longhorns already hold the record of 40.1 in the 440.

Marlene Hagge Leads Tourney

BEAUMONT, Texas (AP) — Marlene Hagge of Del Ray Beach, Fla., fired a one-under-par 72 Friday to take a first round lead in the fifth annual Babe Zaharias Open Golf Tournament.

Mrs. Hagge, the defending champion, had three birdies and a pair of bogies on the 18-hole course.

Ruth Wheatliessen, the distance clouter from Seattle, Wash., is in second place with an even par 73.

Veteran Yanks Give Views On Night Games

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — Hank Bauer and Enos Slaughter, two veteran New York Yankees, sat on a bench watching the visiting team work out.

"I see where somebody figured out the average ball player lasts only five years," said Bauer. "If you were starting now, you'd never be any 20-year-man. Not with all those night games."

"They had night games when I started," said Slaughter.

"Yeah, but not every night like in some of those towns. And none of those two-night doubleheaders. No sir, you're not going to see any more 20-year-men."

"You know, to tell you the truth, I can see a ball better at night than I can in the daytime," Enos said. "In some of those parks, against that white shirt background, you never see it until it gets on top of you."

"I'll bet you could play right

Ascot Park Opens Meeting In Mud

AKRON, (AP) — A 23-2 shot, Flying Cosmic, owned by Smith & Steele of East Liverpool, won the inaugural feature on a sloppy track Friday when Ascot Park opened its spring running races.

With Johnny Sellers up, Flying Cosmic won by a neck over Marshaweista. Lagrin was third in the $2,500-purse event.

field with a blindfold and never run into the wall at Yankee Stadium," a fellow said to Bauer.

"I like that right field at the Stadium," said Bauer. "It's always in the shade. No sun to fight. Boston is the worst right field. Half the time, you never see the ball until it gets on top of you."

"Kansas City is like that, too," Slaughter volunteered. "Of course, they play nights there most of the time. But in the daytime it's tough."

Hank Aaron Gets Early Lead For 1957 Bat Championship

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Ask Milwaukee Manager Fred Haney if he expects Hank Aaron to repeat as National League batting champ and he answers "why not?" Aaron, himself, shrugs and says "maybe." But ask the Brooklyn Dodgers and they snap back "who else?"

The Brooks aren't kidding. The 23-year-old kid from Mobile kills 'em with his bat. They can't get him out.

Aaron, who took the bat crown with 328 last season, was at it again against the Dodgers Friday, swatting a two-run homer — his 10th in 17 exhibition games this spring and fourth off Brooklyn pitching — that backed up an earlier three-run shot by pitcher Lew Burdette for a 5-1 victory.

Aaron also singled, raising his batting average for the spring to .417. And that's exactly what he's hitting against the Dodgers, too. Both of his home runs were off young southpaw Sandy Koufax. The Dodgers managed just seven singles, six off Burdette in six innings and only one off rookie southpaw Juan Pizarro.

In other games, Cincinnati nipped Washington 1-0 on Don Hoak's sixth inning home run, righthander Bob Rush went all the way for the first time this spring as his Chicago Cubs beat Baltimore 6-4, the Philadelphia Phillies scored all their runs on an unearned basis to beat the New York Yankees 6-4, Kansas City rallied to beat Boston's Red Sox 4-1, and the Cleveland Indians breezed past the New York Giants 12-9.

Johnny Klippstein, Russ Meyer and Art Fowler combined for an eight-hitter to beat Washington. Rush set down the Orioles on eight hits, but gave up three home runs — to rookie Carl Povich, Dick Williams and Tito Francona. The Cubs scored off lefty Bill Wight.

Four hits, one a double by Bob Bowman who earlier had tripled, and two Yankee errors brought the Phillies their six runs in the seventh inning after being held to three hits over the first six frames by Bob Turley. Curt Simmons won it.

Two-run eighth inning singles by pinch-hitter Charley Thompson and Johnny Groth, following an error and two walks, brought the A's their victory against George Susce. Maury McDermott was the winner as the Red Sox dropped their fifth in a row.

The Indians chased Dick Littlefield in the first inning. The Giants, who had four home runs including solo pokes by rookies Andre Rodgers and Val Thomas, scored six in the ninth off rookie Stan Pitala to make it look better.

In other action, the Phillies finally got themselves a shortstop. They picked up Chico Fernandez from the Dodgers for Elmer Valo, Ron Negray and three minor leagues plus $75,000.

42 Horses Train For Race Matinee

At least 42 horses are training at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds race track in preparation for the fourth running of the Circleville Jaycee Harness Matinee scheduled for April 28.

Jaycee committeemen are making final arrangements for the big event, the proceeds of which will go into a fund set up for extension and improvement of the grandstand at the local track.

The matinee will be governed by United States Trotting Association rules with trophies and other prizes being offered to winners of eight scheduled heats. The prizes will be donated by local business men.

In case of bad weather the "rain date" has been set for May 5.

HORSES training for the event include the following owned by Pickaway Countians: Porter Martin stables: Pilot

George W. Van Camp stables: Demon Van and Jody Hanover, both owned by Van Camp.

From the Forrest Short stables are the following: Billy Stone, Nip Abbe, Trailslong, Clara Light and Donna M., belonging to Forrest and Harry Short.

Choice H, Lucky H. and Jerry H. are three entries owned by Clarence Helvering of Circleville.

Horses housed in the Murl Thornton and Jim Liso stables are: Success Eloise, owned by Thornton; Traveler, owned by Liso; Jet Pride and Denny Lad, owned by George A. Fissell; and Ned Harmony, owned by Mrs. George A. Fissell.

THOSE working out of the Jimmy Mace stables include: Suney Pride and Marty's Pilot, owned by John Martindill of Williamsport; Watch Bob and Kelley McWin, owned by Arthur and Harley Mace; Foxey Hal, owned by Jim and Fred Mace; Erwin Way, owned by Jim and Frank Mace; and Worthy One, owned by Frank Bowling.

Two horses owned by Emmitt Ebenhack are Countess McQueen and Emmaroy.

An entry of C. E. Myers training for the event is Castle Prince. Wayne Martin's single entry is Jane R. Council.

Joe Wolfe, well-known owner and one of the oldest racemen in the country—Josedale Main and I. C. Van—which will run in the annual Jaycee Matinee.

Widow Creed will be running for owners John Fissell and Ed (Yock) Strawser.

CLEVELAND (AP)—One hundred entrants compete today in the National AAU Indoor Senior Women's Track and Field Championships at Cleveland Arena with new champions assured in 4 of the 11 events.

Seven champions are back to defend their laurels and some of them may be in for a rough time.

Veteran Yanks Give Views On Night Games

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Hank Bauer and Enos Slaughter, two veteran New York Yankees, sat on a bench watching the visiting team work out.

"I see where somebody figured out the average ball player lasts only five years," said Bauer. "If you were starting now, you'd never be any 20-year-man. Not with all those night games."

"They had night games when I started," said Slaughter.

"Yeah, but not every night like in some of those towns. And none of those two-night doubleheaders. No sir, you're not going to see any more 20-year-men."

"You know, to tell you the truth, I can see a ball better at night than I can in the daytime," Enos said. "In some of those parks, against that white shirt background, you never see it until it gets on top of you."

"I'll bet you could play right

Ascot Park Opens Meeting In Mud

AKRON (AP)—A 23-2 shot, Flying Cosmic, owned by Smith & Steele of East Liverpool, won the inaugural feature on a sloppy track Friday when Ascot Park opened its spring running races.

With Johnny Sellers up, Flying Cosmic won by a neck over Marshawesta. Lagrin was third in the $2,500-purse event.

field with a blindfold and never run into the wall at Yankee Stadium," a fellow said to Bauer.

"I like that right field at the Stadium," said Bauer. "It's always in the shade. No sun to fight. Boston is the worst right field. Half the time, you never see the ball until it gets on top of you."

"Kansas City is like that, too," Slaughter volunteered. "Of course, they play nights there most of the time. But in the daytime it's tough."

Soil Bank's Plans Include Record Number of Trees

WASHINGTON — More trees will be planted this year than ever before in the nation's history.

A principal reason is the federal government's Soil Bank conservation reserve program, a long-range project designed to adjust the production of agricultural commodities and increase the nation's soil, water and forest resources.

The Eisenhower administration, pledged to raise living standards of the American farmer, is seeking through the Soil Bank to cut back production of our farms. It is doing this in what is known as the acreage reserve and the lesser-known conservation reserve program.

The government expects that 250 million trees will have been made available by state tree nurseries and privately-owned nurseries for planting in the Soil Bank's conservation reserve by next June 30.

Within three or four years, nurseries will be producing one billion trees a year for the conservation reserve program. Farmers who wish to take part in the tree-planting project may sign contracts with Uncle Sam. By living up to their 10-year contracts—agreeing to plant trees instead of crops—they'll be entitled to annual payments totaling $450 million a year.

The government estimates that there'll be a staggering five billion more trees in the country as a result of the Soil Bank program alone. This is more than double the 2,356,000,000 trees planted by the old Civilian Conservation Corps between 1933 and 1942.

Aside from the tree-planting phase of the Soil Bank, landowners everywhere are waking up to the fact that money really grows on trees. Interest in tree farming—the growing of timber as a crop—is best attested by the fact that nearly every state in the union now is taking part in the voluntary, industry-operated American Tree Farming system of growing timber as a crop on taxpaying timberlands.

Behind all this increased fervor for good forestry lies the basic stimulant of good markets for wood products. According to the American Forest Products Industries, Inc., an educational organization in Washington representing U. S. forest industries, pulp and paper mills, Americans use 5,129 articles made from wood. The list, it adds, is growing continually.

The American Tree Farm system, incidentally, is an industry-sponsored program through which good forest management by "small" woodland owners and others is recognized publicly.

When a landowner feels he is managing his woodland wisely, he may apply to his state Tree Farm committee, which will arrange to have the woodland inspected.

If the inspection by a recognized forester shows management measures up to the American Tree Farm system, the landowner gets a certificate as well as a Tree Farm sign, which he may display. In this way, the tree farmer is contributing to the tree farm movement by encouraging other landowners to grow trees as a crop.

The American Tree Farm system is administered by the American Forest Products Industries, 1816 N. Street, N. W., here. Landowners interested in the system may write to the organization for further information. No membership fees or dues are required. The idea behind the movement is simply to make more wood available to manufacturers of timber products.

The need for a continuous supply of wood is apparent when you consider that the average American uses about 80 cubic feet of wood a year. Lumber is used in greater amounts than any other industrial timber product.

Each one of us uses twice as

In youth it shelters him—as the poet wrote. However, there'll be more trees in his future!

much lumber as a Russian, four times as much as an Englishman, and six times as much as a Frenchman. Our use of paper, too, far exceeds that of any country. If there ever was a bargain in this country, your newspaper, which you buy for but a few cents, is surely it. In many cities across the land the price you paid for a newspaper is far less than what the blank paper alone costs.

Wood plays and will continue to play an important part in the life of every American. With an increasing population it is obvious that more timber products (except fuelwood) will be used 10 years from now.

If the price of industrial wood rises faster than the price of competing materials, probably less wood per person will be used. Even so, with the expected increase in population and improved standard of living the total demand for wood in 1975 is likely to be 25 per cent greater than it is today. In the year 2000 it is expected to be 67 per cent greater.

On the other hand, if industrial wood maintains its present relative place in the economy, and the price rises no faster than the price of competing materials, the total demand for wood in 1975 is likely to be 40 per cent greater than it is today and twice as great in 2000 A. D.

The government estimates that about one out of every 10 American families owns a small forest, considered to be less than 100 acres.

It is from these different folk—farmers, businessmen, professional people, housewives, retired pensioners and others not associated with the forest industry—that the timber needs of tomorrow will come.

Rise In Permits Heralds Active Building Season

Although it will be sometime yet before the building and construction season in Circleville hits full stride, the issuance of building permits is on the increase.

Senator Lashes State Department

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) accuses the State Department of raising "a side issue" to divert attention from its refusal to permit newsmen to enter Red China.

O'Mahoney said the department "owes an apology" to Negro newsmen William Worthy for testimony the senator said was "intended to show he had been jailed for refusing to go to a conscientious objectors camp" in World War II.

Worthy refused to go to a CO camp in 1943 on grounds there was racial discrimination in assignments to such camps. He said he never was prosecuted, but was classified 4-F because of an ulcer.

Governor Asks Strong Drive Against Cancer

Governor C. William O'Neill in Columbus has called upon all Ohioans to support the annual statewide cancer drive this month. He issued a proclamation designating April as "Cancer Control Month."

Governor O'Neill, honorary state chairman of the drive, called cancer "a monstrous disease" and "man's cruelest enemy" in his proclamation.

The proclamation also declared that:

"Cancer spares neither young nor old, men nor women, regardless of race, creed or kin.

"This monstrous disease is beginning to give ground before the combined strength of science, medicine, public education, and the devoted service of thousands of volunteers.

"THE American Cancer Society now reports that one-third of all those who get cancer are being saved, compared with only one-fourth a few years ago.

"It will be possible to further improve this figure through education, early detection, and prompt treatment."

West German GI Reminded Of Red Moves In Hungary

BONN, Germany (AP)—The walls of the new West German armored training school are plastered with the menacing silhouettes of Russian Stalin tanks.

Across the turrets and guns are blazoned the words:

"Don't ever forget this."

The tanks are the type the Red army used to crush the Hungarian revolt. Thousands of them are massed in East Germany and other satellite countries.

Disarmed since World War II, West Germans are nearly ready to take their place in the Western defense line.

The first three new German infantry divisions are to be handed over to the North Atlantic Alliance July 1.

NATO naval forces have acquired two squadrons of German minesweepers.

The first 9,733 German draftees were called up this week, boosting West German defense forces to 90,000 men.

The German contribution to Western defense was first proposed in 1950 during the Korean crisis. After years of international squabbling and indecision, the military buildup is finally beginning to show results.

The target, possibly by the end of 1960, is a highly mobile army of 12 divisions, a tactical air force of 1,300 combat jet planes and a small coastal navy.

All will be trained for atomic warfare. The original manpower goal was 500,000. But this may be reduced in line with new thinking on the size of divisions.

When the new German forces were planned, West Germany was prohibited from making the "ABC" weapons — atomic, biological or chemical.

Since then such tactical A-weapons as artillery shells and guided missiles have been developed. Lt. Gen. Adolf Heusinger, chairman ducted in all Ohio's 88 counties during April with a state goal of $2,000,000. National goal is $30,000,000. Governor O'Neill's proclamation follows a similar one by President Eisenhower, as directed by Congress.

Wilmington Man Files Bankruptcy

CINCINNATI (AP)—C. L. Amburgey, doing business as the Amburgey Lumber Co. in Wilmington, has filed schedules of bankruptcy and offered his general creditors 25 cents on the dollar.

Claims of general liabilities were given as $74,810.56 and assets — $25,926.89. The assets included $11,033.10 in real estate and $12,123.79 cash on hand.

Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were brought by three creditors last Feb. 21. They claimed Amburgey committed an act of bankruptcy by permitting the Internal Revenue Department to put a lien on his property.

Leaders Talk About Farming: Socialism, New Oppositor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

They were talking about the American farmer again today.

In Cleveland, Charles B. Shuman, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, told the Rotary Club that farming is on the road to "complete socialistic domination" after 30 years of politically motivated farm legislation.

He said American agriculture must choose between government handouts and freedom.

But in Washington, farmers were cautioned by another one of their leaders that an "antifarm bloc" is developing in Congress.

Herschel D. Newsom, master of the National Grange, said feeling against agriculture is building up because of public resentment against continued heavy government outlays on farm programs.

Newsom said there is critical need for development of better farm programs. He declared:

"We cannot forever defend an Agricultural Department budget five to eight billion dollars annually for four or five million farmers anymore than we can defend an additional appropriation of one to three billion dollars to subsidize farm exports."

And the Agriculture Department reported that farmers continue to be heavier eaters than their city cousins.

A department survey of the nation's dietary levels made in 1955 but only recently tabulated and analyzed pictured the modern-day farm meal as being as bountiful as those of the past.

Farm diets were found to contain more milk, grain products, fats and oils and sugars than urban diets. They provided more calories and more of all the nutrients except vitamins A and C. A shortage of vitamin A affects sight and body resistance to infections while a shortage of vitamin C invites scurvy.

Soil Bank's Plans Include Record Number of Trees

WASHINGTON — More trees will be planted this year than ever before in the nation's history.

A principal reason is the federal government's Soil Bank conservation reserve program, a long-range project designed to adjust the production of agricultural commodities and increase the nation's soil, water and forest resources.

The Eisenhower administration, pledged to raise living standards of the American farmer, is seeking through the Soil Bank to cut back production of our farms. It is doing this in what is known as the acreage reserve and the lesser-known conservation reserve program.

The government expects that 250 million trees will have been made available by state tree nurseries and privately-owned nurseries for planting in the Soil Bank's conservation reserve by next June 30.

WITHIN three or four years, nurseries will be producing one billion trees a year for the conservation reserve program. Farmers who wish to take part in the tree-planting project may sign contracts with Uncle Sam. By living up to their 10-year contracts—agreeing to plant trees instead of crops—they'll be entitled to annual payments totaling $450 million a year.

The government estimates that there'll be a staggering five billion more trees in the country as a result of the Soil Bank program alone. This is more than double the 2,356,000,000 trees planted by the old Civilian Conservation Corps between 1933 and 1942.

Aside from the tree-planting phase of the Soil Bank, landowners everywhere are waking up to the fact that money really grows on trees. Interest in tree farming—the growing of timber as a crop—is best attested by the fact that nearly every state in the union now is taking part in the voluntary, industry-operated American Tree Farming system of growing timber as a crop on taxpaying timberlands.

Behind all this increased fervor for good forestry lies the basic stimulant of good markets for wood products. According to the American Forest Products Industries, Inc., an educational organization in Washington representing U. S. forest industries, pulp and paper mills, Americans use 5,129 articles made from wood. The list, it adds, is growing continually.

The American Tree Farm system, incidentally, is an industry-sponsored program through which good forest management by "small" woodlot owners and others is recognized publicly.

When a landowner feels he is managing his woodlot wisely, he may apply to his state Tree Farm committee, which will arrange to have the woodlot inspected.

IF THE inspection by a recognized forester shows management measures up to the American Tree Farm system, the landowner gets a certificate as well as a Tree Farm sign, which he may display. In this way, the tree farmer is contributing to the tree farm movement by encouraging other landowners to grow trees as a crop.

The American Tree Farm system is administered by the American Forest Products Industries, 1816 N. Street, N. W., here. Landowners interested in the system may write to the organization for further information. No membership fees or dues are required. The idea behind the movement is simply to make more wood available to manufacturers of timber products.

The need for a continuous supply of wood is apparent when you consider that the average American uses about 80 cubic feet of wood a year. Lumber is used in greater amounts than any other industrial timber product.

Each one of us uses twice as

In youth it shelters him—as the poet wrote. However, there'll be more trees in his future!

much lumber as a Russian, four times as much as an Englishman, and six times as much as a Frenchman. Our use of paper, too, far exceeds that of any country. If there ever was a bargain in this country, your newspaper, which you buy for but a few cents, is surely it. In many cities across the land the price you paid for a newspaper is far less than what the blank paper alone costs.

Wood plays and will continue to play an important part in the life of every American. With an increasing population it is obvious that more timber products (except fuelwood) will be used 10 years from now.

IF THE PRICE of industrial wood rises faster than the price of competing materials, probably less wood per person will be used. Even, so, with the expected increase in population and improved
